There is no other country that has legislation as beneficial to their Veterans. The object of the legislation is to relieve from necessity any veteran who is incapable of maintaining himself.

The amount of allowance payable is discretionary with the Board, but must not exceed—

(a)—Twenty dollars per month to a single veteran, whose total income, including the allowance, must not exceed Three Hundred and sixty-five dollars per annum.

(b)—Forty dollars per month to a married veteran or widower, whose total income, including the allowance, must not exceed Seven Hundred and Thirty dollars per annum. Allowance can only be paid at married rate if veteran is residing with his family.

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

By Spectator A Weekly Review of National Affairs

Ottawa, May 19th.—At a time when the people of so many nations are regimented under dictators, those who live in democratic countries are extremely sensitive on the question of free speech. Anything which seems to threaten or restrict any avenue for the free expression of opinion meets with immediate opposition. The democracies jealously guard an ancient heritage. The lively debate on radio broadcasting in the commons last week was caused by the appearance of a cloud real or imaginary which seemed to threaten freedom of speech over the radio. Mr. "Tommy" Church, member from Toronto started the ball rolling by taking vigorous exception to criticism of the British government by a commentator broadcasting from Winnipeg. The speech was received with sympathy by the prime minister who, in a statement following questioned the propriety of the broadcasting corporation which received its autonomy from parliament criticizing the government policies and actions.

Fighting Game Fish Across Canada

Huge opportunities in the lakes and streams of Canada afford fishing opportunities which are unequalled anywhere in the world. The wide stretches of the Dominion are liberally supplied with forest and lake-land, abounding in game fish and animals, where lovers of the great outdoors can find a sports district to suit their every whim.

Fishing conditions are so varied in Canada and the species of game fish so numerous that a small booklet is required merely to list all the fish and regulations of the different sections. Deep-sea fishing is found on both ocean coasts, for half-ton tuna off Nova Scotia and smaller large sharks north of Vancouver Island; five-pound small-mouth black bass at the Devil's Gap Camp, Lake of the Woods district, and in hundreds of lakes in Eastern Canada, vie for popularity with 40-pound muskies at such favored resorts as the French River Camp near Quinor; fighting trout of several species are found everywhere in Canada, most popular regions among anglers being the Laurentian Mountains, north of Montreal, or the mile-high lakes surrounding Banff and Lake Louise in the Canadian Rockies; and mighty salmon bring joy to the hearts of anglers in the fisheries.

These few highlights of Canada's many fishing opportunities illustrate why Canadian sportsmen fishing in their home waters are joined every year by so many thousands of anglers from the United States and overseas. Conditions, possibilities and regulations vary so widely in different sections that anglers planning to visit strange districts would do well to find out all about them in advance from A. O. Seymour, general tourist agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal, or from fishing clubs, obtainable at all Canadian Pacific offices.

proceedings of parliament of another nation of the British Empire, particularly in the present critical times. The next day the House opened through the house with some menbers strenuously supporting the right of free speech over the radio while others agreed that the rights of free speech were inviolable but that accuracy in news comments was essential and that propriety and care in broadcasting in a troubled world should exercise a restraining influence on what went out over the air. Some members questioned the accuracy of news comments that have been made over the radio by Canadian commentators, while others believed that these speeches were based on accurate news whatever the opinions expressed, and that the speeches were very interesting. There was much diversity of opinion among the members as to finally in the debate but the impression to be gained by observers was that there was little danger of any law in a statement following free speech in Canada. The high spirited, high stepping demand "freedom of speech" was likely never to be discussed at all but simply to be handed a book of simple maxims which might govern their conduct when they steps out on the congested and periodic of the House.

The effort of Mr. Neill, member from Vancouver failed to prevent further immigration of Japanese into this country as has not met with success in parliament.

In view of the present situation in the Orient the government is particularly anxious to avoid stirring up bad feeling.

Railway Problems
Railway questions are still being discussed before a committee of the Commons and a committee of the Senate. In the commons committee further opposition has been raised to the clause in Mr. Howes's transport bill which provides for "agreed charges". A representative of the automobile association contended that giving this right to the railways, that is of agreeing with customers on lowering of regular rates under certain conditions would be a severe blow to the trucking business. It would be a reversal to "the law of the jungle". There were 200,000 trucks in operation in Canada, with an investment of 400 million dollars in this important modern industry.

In the Senate Committee an earnest effort is being made to determine just why there has been so little saving in the plan of cooperative economies between the two railways under the plan inaugurated in 1923. According to testimony of railway officials who have been heard there is little chance of any extensive saving through cooperative methods unless there is some form of compulsory pooling of the railways. The Senate is seeking to discover some effective means of carrying out economies in railway operation.

The House of Commons has been putting a number of bills through the final stages of legislation in that chamber. From there they will go to the Senate for further consideration. Among these bills are an amendment to the Farmers Creditors' Arrangement Act, the radio measure, a bill for refunding of 200 million dollars of C. N. E. obligations, a bill dealing with sealing rights on the Pacific. There is no sign yet of the budget. The time of its appearance depends on how the negotiations of the trade treaty with the United States progress.

Banks in Toronto, Canada, lose $25,000 annually in pens and take fitted by customers, says A. S. Fisher, Bank of Montreal accountant. Every tenth person entering a bank, he figured out, either fills up his fountain pen or walks off with a penholder.

Democratic education does not merely mean the teaching of political doctrines. It includes the development of an outlook toward life which makes the political doctrine acceptable. And it means one more thing which has often been forgotten, namely, the teaching of the truth that tolerance and respect for the personality of others does not preclude determination in the defense of one's own principles. Let us remember again that democracy and with democracy peace will be extinct if the believers in democratic government will allow their desire for peace to develop into non-resistance toward intolerance, their readiness for self-criticism into a lack of self-reliance, and their recognition of the rights of their opponents into a lack of moral courage to fight those who deny the principles of freedom.

The moth is an under cover worker and should be carefully watched at this season of the year. The evil that a moth works in the household linen and clothes closets lives after it, says a writer in the April issue of C-4, oval, and to get ahead of the moth the housewife must start before the moth has a chance of laying its eggs. The repellent must come before the moth which is only dangerous to clothing in its larva stage and can be dormant for years in an atmosphere replete of moth balls. The vital ingredient of a modern moth repellent is an organic chemical dangerous to moths but quite harmless to textiles and human beings. Whenever infestation with moth eggs is suspected the safest treatment is fumigation with a highly lethal gas which is best carried out by dry cleaning, fumigation and storage services which have proper machinery. Chemical moth repellents for household use are most effective when the clothes together with a good dose of the asphyxiating gas, are hermetically sealed in a container.

TURNER VALLEY
GAS CONSERVATION

What has been a grief to hundreds of Alberta citizens is now to be rectified. To see the South Western sky illuminated each night by a flare caused from thousands of feet of gas burning in utter waste, has caused many a comment on the reckless waste.

Now the Dominion Government is authorizing the Alberta Legislature to take what steps are necessary towards conservation.

Millions of cubic feet of gas escape into flares to be burned every day in the Turner Valley Field, an amount estimated sufficient to supply both Montreal and Toronto with illumination and heating. The escaping gas which lowers the pressure in the oil field, has been described as the greatest economic waste in Canada.

In 1922, the Alberta Legislature passed legislation to conserve the gas but it was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Canada because the terms of the Dominion-Provincial agreement transferring the natural resources to the province.

The legislation considered Tuesday was designed to remove all doubt the province had power to pass a conservation law and apply it in Turner Valley. Under terms of the resources agreement, the province had power to pass a conservation policy which would apply generally throughout Alberta but it could not single out a particular oil field.

The legislation, sponsored by Hon. T. A. Cregar, Minister of Resources, stands for third reading.

Legislation was passed at the recent session of the Alberta legislature giving the province wide powers to impose conservation measures in Turner Valley. The right to change agreements or leases, with compensation for any who might suffer loss in any way through the changes, "in the interest of the oil and gas industry," was provided in the legislation.

DON'T OVER-RATE YOUR BANKER

He cannot perform Miracles

There would be more banks than grocery stores all over Canada if banks could perform the miracle of "creating" the means of payment out of nothing.

It is easy to confuse these two things:
 (a) The business of commercial banking, and
 (b) Control of a nation's monetary system.

Commercial banking has to do with the safe-keeping and lending of money and credit.

Control of a monetary system is a matter of national, governmental policy.

Chartered banks finance production and commerce. Monetary policy in any country is a matter for the national government itself, either directly, or through a central bank.

The Dominion Parliament established Canada's central bank in 1934—the Bank of Canada. Its purpose was declared by Parliament in the very first paragraph of the Act of Incorporation as follows:

"To regulate credit and currency in the best interests of the economic life of the nation, to control and protect the external value of the national monetary unit and to mitigate by its influence fluctuations in the general level of production, trade, prices and employment so far as may be possible within the scope of monetary action, and generally to promote the economic and financial welfare of the Dominion."

It is for governments alone to determine a nation's monetary policy. Differing conditions of debt and credit may make what is wise for one country unwise for another.

Printing "tickets"—as currency has been called in some sections—entirely out of step with production would make everything you buy more expensive. A Canadian woman living in Germany during that country's inflation in 1923 had to pay 6,000,000 marks for an overcoat, and later 1,000,000,000 marks for a postage stamp!

The business of commercial banking is something to be considered by itself, apart from central banking.

A commercial bank takes deposits. There are two kinds of them. For convenience, call them "savings" and "current." Say you are a workman, or a farmer. After you've paid your living costs out of your wage, or out of the proceeds of your crop, you have some dollars left over. Because you do not want to spend them at once you deposit them in a savings account.

That is a savings deposit. As distinguished from this is the "current" account. Say you are a merchant. You have expenses to meet day by day and therefore always carry a balance in an account against which you issue cheques for your business needs.

That is a current account. Let us say you have $100 in that account and you need $1,000 to meet some bills. You borrow it from the bank. It gives you the money. You give the manager your note and he places $1,000 to your credit as a deposit in your current account. Immediately your balance goes up to $1,100—$1,000 of it being derived directly from a loan.

It is unlike a savings deposit in this respect: You intend to spend it at once. You immediately issue cheques against it. You borrowed the money for business purposes, prepared to pay interest because the transaction was a profitable one to you. Soon most of the thousand has been paid out.

For most of the rest of the term of the loan your deposit is at its lowest. Then, before your note is due, you gather money to repay. Up goes your deposit to its peak again.

Then you repay. Your deposit abruptly drops back to say your original $100—plus the profit you have made, by the use of the borrowed money.

No matter whether bank deposits are savings or current, your bank must keep on hand cash reserves adequate to meet any demands from day to day. When its loans are increased, not only is more cash paid out—as was the case with your $1,000 loan; but your bank's cash reserves also become lower in proportion to total deposits.

A bank must not unduly expand its lending operations, for then its cash will fall below the proportion which experience has shown to be necessary to meet the day-to-day demands of deposits.

STRUGGLE FOR FREEDOM OF THE PRESS IN ALBERTA RECOGNIZED

Mr. John M. Inrie's eloquent reply to the honour conferred on him and the Press of Alberta, by the Fulfiller Board of the Columbia School of Journalism in New York City, May 2, is herein published.

In introducing Mr. Inrie Dean Ackerman said the recent decision of the Supreme Court of Canada re the Alberta Act, 1927, was "one of the greatest legal decisions in this period of world change." Later in an interview he said the awards to Alberta newspapers constituted "the greatest thing in the twenty-one-year history of the Fulfiller prizes."

Mr. Inrie was informed on the best of authority that the Fulfiller Trustees Board had made searching inquiries before deciding to break with precedent by making these awards, the first outside of the United States. These inquiries had involved surveys in Alberta on two occasions by a staff correspondent of the Associated Press, and interviews by a direct representative of the Trustee Board in Ottawa and Montreal with parties who had been associated with the hesitating before the Supreme Court of Canada.

Speech of Acknowledgment by Mr. Inrie—"My heart is full of overflow as I accept tonight on behalf of the Edmonton Journal this plaque of bronze and on behalf of other Alberta newspapers these certificates of cooperation with my own. I am deeply grateful for the recognition thus given to the struggle of Alberta newspapers to preserve the freedom of the press within that province.

That struggle is for much more than a free press. It is a struggle for democracy itself.

It is of the very essence of democracy that the people should have opportunity to know and freedom to discuss the activities and policies of their government. That is essential to the formation of intelligent public opinion which in the final analysis is the motivating force and the effective safeguard of true democracy.

Over the centuries the struggle for freedom of the press has been linked at almost every step with the struggle for freedom of speech, of assembly, of access to the courts. It is a lesson of history that these several forms of freedom must stand or fall together.

Government control of the press is an indispensable instrument of dictatorship. On the other hand, a free press is both an essential and an evidence of democratic institutions. It seems to me, sir, that this occasion of recognition tonight might well be made an occasion of re-dedication also. This past quarter century has witnessed the setting up of one dictatorship after another. Even in some of the few remaining democracies a strange and dangerous infiltration is in process.

It is not for me, coming from another country, to say more.

er country, to suggest to you the form and nature of your own re-dedication. But speaking for myself and I believe for my fellow-publishers of Alberta, I give you this pledge:

Humbly but without fear, not for ourselves alone but for our province, not simply for the press as such but for democracy we will continue with unabated vigor, without equivocation or surrender, and notwithstanding whatever sacrifice may be involved, the struggle to preserve inviolate in Alberta those fundamentals of liberty and freedom that are the common and glorious heritage of your people and of mine.

THE SPORTS LEDGER

Another roller entered the hall of fame in golf ranks here. Clarence Van Tighem made a hole in one on the local links last Sunday. Incidentally it is only the second time this act has been accomplished, the first being also sunk in the fifth hole, the drive being made by the late Mr. Jos.
Van Tighem. Congratulations.

Forby Pedon, famous Canadian bicycle rider will be the feature attraction at the Edmonton races on May 24. The sports are sponsored by the Edmonton Highlanders.

Did you know that King Levinsky that colorful "fish pedlar" boxer of a few years ago has turned wrestler?

A new addition to the person of John Sullivan has further strengthened the Calgary Bronco's 1938 lineup.
Sullivan is considered one of Mon-ahan's outstanding triple threats of last season. This grid season would look very bright indeed if Ed Klovig reunited with the Bronco.

It seems that the West has been a bit selfish with her share of the sports titles. For the first six months of this year what we have won.

Trail won the Senior Amateur Hockey
title, St. Boniface the Junior Crown, Vancouver took the Men's Basketball crown, Edmonton Grads held the Women's Basketball Championship, Jimmie Dundes a Manitoba lad holds the Hastan weight boxing championship.

Over half of the Chicago Blackhawks
are Western products and Hawks were winners of the world's Hockey championship and the Stanley Cup.

We often wonder what Eastern sports
men are going to do about it?

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of William Wilkinson, who died May 24th, 1935.
There is a link death
cannot sever.
Love and remembrance
last for ever.

Lovingly remembered by his wife and family.
